

MIT Double Fold

This test measures the resistance of paper to breaking during repeated folding. It was developed for use on publication papers, which are subjected to multiple folding and unfolding.

The test has been found to be useful in predicting score cracking tendency in high hardwood SBS board.